CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS

113th Congress (January 2011-January 2013)

The Constitution requires Congress to be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers. Each state therefore sends its representatives to Congress. The distribution of representatives has been based on total U.S. population, so that the average population per representative has the least possible variation between one state and any other. Congress fixes the number of representatives in each district boundaries. State district boundaries are currently those set by the 113th Congress. There are non-voting delegates from American Samoa, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands.
